Biorelativity - co-creating with Mother Earth

by Cosmin Supeala

Thank you and welcome everyone also from me, I am very happy and excited, grateful and honored to be with all of you and I honor, cherish and acknowledge you all for all that you are, thank you for this opportunity to be of service to you all.

In my presentation today I want to shortly cover this new understanding and consciousness that we can express in Biorelativity. Biorelativity implies the recognition and the embrace of the living spirit of the planet as a mother, this is the first major step in achieving a greater consciousness and embracing higher spiritual teachings and truths that are an integrating part in the native cultures for instance. The honoring and embrace of the sacredness of all life, of the planet, of the Mother and all that she is, form a foundation for a deeper interaction and communication full of love and gratitude. This is one step forward, where an interaction with the spirit of the planet occurs, with the Mother, sending the thoughts and feelings, expressing of the own needs to the spirit of the planet, for instance for good weather conditions for the creation and manifestation of good crops. The understanding and aligning to the natural cycles of life and nature, including the influences from the solar system and galaxy on the planet and her part in this even greater context, and the deep honoring, love and protection of the sacredness of all creation and life on the planet is also a part of the high consciousness that we all can integrate, express and manifest. We are working now together with the native teachers and friends and many other ascended masters within the Sacred Triangle paradigm, our brothers and sisters in the higher realms to embrace and integrate this higher consciousness and expression in our relation with our planet, our Mother, Mother Earth.

This process can be then further developed and cultivated to even a higher level of interaction, the forms of interaction and exchange based on this deep connection and common embrace can be further developed and experienced. This includes seeking to deeply understand how the planet is functioning, how her spheres are interacting, how the energy life force is created and spread, how life is created and is evolving, the role and purpose of the Earth's beings that are participating in creating this unique and beautiful life experience context, understanding the cycles of life, the unfolding of seasons and the interaction of the planet with the moon, the sun, the solar system and the galaxy. Based on this very valuable knowledge we can move the interaction on an even higher level, where we are going service to the planet and the unfolding of creation on Mother Earth, where we take the role of co-creators together with all other forces of creation that are present on the planet and aim for installing and holding an absolute balance, called homeostasis for the planet and all life forms, including ourselves, that reside on it. We have as role models our brothers and sisters from the native cultures who have great experience and knowledge that we are ready now to receive and integrate in a larger scale. When we chose to open ourselves for this more refined and complex level of interaction with our sacred intention to not only keep the balance and sacredness of creation but to further expand and cultivate it, we are entering even a greater service for Mother Earth and humanity, Mother Earth will know that she can work with us, she can rely on our willingness and readiness to help not only raise consciousness about many things that are not in balance, but also restore the balance and harmony and then create ways to keep it sacred. We begin to consciously participate at a co-creation with Mother Earth and all others, we embrace, as a collective, even more our creational role and responsibility to create a harmonious, peaceful, high vibrational balance and abundance for all, where more and more a homeostasis can become and stay our continuous reality and experience on this planet.

So, I want to give a short roadmap on how this can become a reality:

1. Help raise and expand the consciousness about the living spirit of the planet, about the sacredness of all life and creation, of the elements and nature
2. Help raise awareness and consciousness about what is in unbalance without judgement, showing the ways how to heal this miscreation and create the foundation for a new interaction based on honoring, embrace and love with Mother Earth
3. Seek to fully understand the workings and functioning of our planet, of her spheres, of her energetic system, of her feedback loop system, of the cycles of life and unfolding of life, of her interaction with the moon, sun and the solar system and galaxy and their influences
4. Opening ourselves for this even higher experience and embracing our co-creational role with Mother Earth and all our friends, brothers and sisters, being ready to enter in service for the highest good of all, where we not only ask for what our needs are but we enter in service consciously for Mother Earth and all her realms hearing what she and all that she is needs from us.
5. Develop und cultivate this higher interaction further and further and bring it at a level of complete harmonious conscious co-creation having as foundation a growing higher consciousness that is fully integrated and cultivated in our personal and collective expression

We are working now on these steps and soon we can venture into the next steps of this wonderful experience together with Mother Earth and I call you, brothers and sisters, to be open for this even greater fulfilling interaction through service to our Mother Earth and humanity.

Many blessings to all of you, brothers and sisters! I embrace you all.
